

Gabon

Goods	Documents Required	Customs Prescriptions	Remarks
Vehicles			<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ For all permanent imports of vehicles, the client will have to pay RUSID tax (3-4% of the value of the vehicle), as well as customs duties (54% of the CIF value of the vehicle). Military personnel will benefit from an allowance of 40% of the value of the vehicle, and 50% of the shipment value can be granted by Gabonese customs when calculating customs duties. ➤ For temporary imports, RUSID tax will also apply, but the client will be exempted from customs duties. ➤ However, this exemption, valid for one year and renewable thereafter, involves a stringent administrative follow-up. Clients relocating to Gabon for short periods of time should therefore opt for temporary admission. This concerns embassy workers and military personnel in particular. ➤ Regardless of the type of admission chosen, the necessary documentation must arrive in Gabon at least two weeks prior to the arrival of the shipment.